

Board vs. Education Essay

I. Do you think separate schools are equal? I don't think they are equal here are my reasons. Separate schools may be taught different things by unqualified teachers. Or they may not have enough books for everyone. Last, they might have over crowded classrooms.

II. Some teachers are not as qualified as others. In poorer areas their teachers may not be as smart as teachers in richer areas. Also, some of the teachers may not even teach what the requirements are.

III. Some separate schools do not have enough books for every student. Result to that may bring some students grades down for they do not have their own book to take home to study from. Which in conclusion results in poorer grades. There may be a student who has an A and takes home a book just because and then there's another student with a struggling F. What is he supposed to study from? Every student should have his/or her own books.

IV. In some schools mostly separate schools the classrooms are too crowded. In a poor area where a lot of people live the classrooms would be full. That would cause year round schools. There would also be a lot of changing. If a classroom is too crowded the teacher would be able to help individual students with their problems because she'll be too busy with all the others. The teacher would also be too overwhelmed and put his or her best effort forward.

V. In conclusion, I do not think that separate schools are equal. My first reason is because classrooms may be too crowded. Next, not everyone student may not have their own study books. Last, their teachers may not be as qualified as others. We can make school a good place for kids to learn and not have separate schools.
